

#6
ABSTRACT

An inkjet printhead has a series of ink ejection nozzles for the ejection of ink, each of the nozzles interconnecting a nozzle chamber with an external atmosphere. Each nozzle has a first meniscus rim around which an ink meniscus normally forms, and an extended ink flow prevention rim spaced outwardly from the first meniscus rim and substantially encircling the first meniscus rim, arranged to prevent the flow of ink across the surface of the inkjet printhead.

COPY OF RECORD
ORIGINALITY FILED

RECEIVED
JAN 29 2002
TECHNOLOGY CENTER 2800

000035471.042300